HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 572 1885. A Government Gazette Extraordinary issued yesterday afternoon states that " the French Government is about to instruct its haval officers to enforce belligerent rights, including the right of search of neutral ships at sea for contraband of war." The direction arranged under one Alphabet in the strictest to His Excellency the Governor to issue an official notification to that effect has, we pre-The MAPS and PLANS have been mostly be regretted that the telegram was not fuller and more explicit. "Belligerent rights, including right of search of neutral ships at sea for contraband of war," have already been with Formosa. Are we to understand from the telegram that the same rights are about to be enforced as regards trade with the whole of the ports of China? The right to search for contraband of war necessarily implies (1) the existence of a state of war, and (2) the right to remove the contraband of war. But unless war exists arms and munitions cannot be considered contraband : A full Chronology of remarkable events since in times of peace-they are an ordinary article of commerce. Now France has not yet deestablished a partial blockade of Formosa. That blocksde has been respected by the Arrivals and Departures of Mails at and from neutral powers, but so far the trade with the ports on the mainland has gone on unintera state of war prevailing, and arms and munitions of war have been freely ship- lately. ped from this colony for the various ports see how they can be considered so. If a shipbecome the immediate duty of the Govern.

Shanghai be seized on a British ship it would for Toulon. It may be that the notification is intended to for seeing that the Formosan ports are notually blockaded it is hardly necessary to inform the world that belligorent rights are about to be enforced. It may be, again, that the intention of the French is to retalitte for the do-French ships of war to rout in Hongkong and cents each. Singapore by compelling all vessels leaving s ty'this may be so, but we do not think it of things fraught with peril to the friendship on common sonse. of the two countries. When the notification that French ships could not refit here apunreasonably request the Government to prohibit the export of arms destined for munitions from this colony is a very different thing. The enforcement of "belligerent to the lecture which Col. Crawford, the Comrights, including right of search of neutral ships at sea for contraband of war," might. certainly be held to cover such an intention interesting to artillery volunteers, and one which if it be conceded that belligerent rights exist elsewhere than in Formosa and Touquin for such work. After the lecture the members of 1870. and Annam. But at these places belligerent rights have been enforced for a long time past, whereas the notification is worded in the future tense, implying that the belligerent rights are to be enforced elsewhere. Another hypothesis that may be put forward is that the French intend at once to supersede the present "state of reprisals" by a paragraph:—"In response to inquiries made, we state of actual war, and have notified the British Government of their intention to make the formal declaration of war, so that British ships might be warned against having contraband on board when the declaration is actually made. No doubt, like the immortal bard in one of his greatest poems, the Russian Government throw the guilt on opportunity when they calmly tear up solemn compacts or violate written agreements. Opportunity makes the criminal in the case of nations as in that of individuals, and the tearing up of the Treaty of Paris during the France-German war, the seizure of a slice of Manchuria during the last war between England and China, and other acts of a kindred nature by Russia would not have been perpetrated had not opportunity tempted thereto. Such temptations, unfortunately for her neighbours, Russia seems quite unable to withstand: hence the lurking danger always to be feared from her when difficulties with other Powers arise. There is no doubt that Russia has been carefully watching, first the development of the Franco-Chinese imbroglio, and subse.

CORRESPONDENCE

I We de not hold curselyes responsible for the opinions expressed by our Correspondents.] THE FRENCH BLOCKADING OPERA

TIONS TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sir.—The news contained in your issue of today, in a letter from Taiwanfoo to the Amoy Gazette, deserves the attention of the publi I recommend its perusal and the consideration of the following points to Englishmen, who are closely concerned in this matter. (I). For three weeks before the 5th January there was no blockeding squadron on the S W. coast of Formosa; no notice was given to either neutrals or Chinese of the suspension of the blockade. A fresh blockade was notified by Admiral Courbet to commence on the 7th, in a no-tification, in which he declares the earlier blockade to have been provisionally suspended Wharton states that to raise a blockade established with notification, without issuing due no -tification to noutrals, is a fraudulent act which no civilized power would be guilty of. There have been only three French war-vossels on the whole S.W. coast a quite insufficient number to maintain a blockade,—and on soveral occasions, since the 7th January, none have been visible. Now, "blockades in order to be binding must be effectual." The present is therefore merely a "paper" blockade, and therefore un-

(II) .- The Amon Griete correspondent says. under date of 10th January :- "The new blockade has commenced with a furious attack upon all native eraft coming within range of the French guns," and he then proceeds to give examples of how this warfare has been prosecuted. His statements corroborate the accounts which have reached this colony through other sources, and go to prove that a system of wholesale distruction of every species of Chinese junk or best traffic of the Canton River and the greater ex- slong the Formosan court has been going on since the 7th, their grows which survive being removed to Kelung, where they are forced to work in the coul-mines and batteries. The correspondent gives one instance of what is book value of the Kiukiany; this measure has going on: "An exciting scene took place off been adopted by the Directors so as not to take the amount out of the carnings of the current half-wear, and the value of the steamen's such as half-year, and the value of the steamer is such as Two French cruisers and the Triomphanis kept a brisk fire at her for the best part of an hour. Subsequently one of the corvettes weighed ansome 840,000 or $50,000 below what sho is valued chor and gave chare to within a safe distance of at by experts. During the earlier part of the past half-year the company have had opposition a fresh breeze, contrived, in a most miraculous to contend with both on the Hongkong and manner, to run into an anchorage without being Canton and Hougkong and Macao lines. On touched. Unfortunately, one of the crew, in a paroxysm of fright, jumped overboard and was drowned. There was intense excitement on shore as each gun was fired, the splash of the shots, as they strack the water, frequently four junks; as far as could be seen there must have been some display of resistance, in the case of two of the unfortunate reprisals, to warrant from the tops of the ironclad. What became of the craws of the boats seized is not known. Letters from Taiwan-foo received here add that the work of destruction includes every even the very smallest, and their crews (fishermen, petty traders, and market people) are taken to work at Keluug, where they are hardly fed, confined or chained down at night, compelled to labour at the point of the bayonet, and when through sickness and weakness unable to work, law of recognized civilized warfare. It is an axiom that the non-combatant is not to be made to feel the stress of war, the principle being that "war is wared by state against state by soldier against soldier." In any work on International Law will be found the following famous words of Talleyrand in a dispatch addressed to Napoleon

"Three centuries of civilization have given to Europe a law of nations, for which, according to the opinion of an illustrious writer, human nature cannot be sufficiently grateful. This law is founded on the principle that nations ought to do to one another in peace the most good, and in war the least evil possible." According to the maxim that war is not a relation between a man and another, but between state and state, in which private persons are only HONGKONG AND CHINA BAKERY accidental enemies, not such as men, nor even as members or subjects of the state, but simply as its defenders, the law of nations does not allow that the rights of war and of conquest thence derived should be applied to peaceable, unarmed citizens, to private dwellings and properties, to the merchandise of commerce, to the magazines which contain it, to the vehicles which transport it, to unarmed ships which convey it on streams and seas; in one word, to the persons and goods

> It is to be hoped that the orders issued on the 23rd January regarding the enforcement of the Enlistment Act will be strictly carried out, and thus prevent the English colony of Hongkong from being any longer, what it has been, the base for such operations. It is hardly conceivable that England will ac

No one would find a trace of high treason in such an item of news. Here in the Philippines it is quite otherwise. Its insertion is regarded as an attack by the Creeles on the European Spaniards, the so-called "Poninsulars." But nobody entertains any such ideas save a few hair brained fellows. On the contrary, the mother country has nowhere more faithful sons than the natives of the Spanish East Indies whether they belong to the olass of Creoles, or Mestizoes, or Indians (natives of pure Malay race). The object of the intelligent classes in the Philippines is not separation from the mother country. They only endeavour to fill up the gulf which separates them from their European brethren, and it is sad to see this effort checked by the persecution of a short-sighted Government. The Creoles and Mestizoes do not desire that their smaller native country should coase to be a Spanish possession. What they want is to see it raised to the rank of a Spanish province, equal in rank to the 49; other provinces making up European Spain. The Creoles and Mestizoes wish to be no longer looked upon by the sons of the mother country as second or third class Spaniards. They long to be put on the same feeting as born Spaniards and wish to acquire full Spanish civil rights. What liberal and right thinking men can detect anything dangerous Douglas Steamship Company, Limited-Par, or treasonable in this programme? But the Spanish Government has taken up this fancy. to the incalculable harm of the mother country herself.
